// Sales Director of one of the world's largest brewers

We had been looking for quite some time to expand our export sales organisation but were struggling to find a high-calibre candidate to fill the role. Nigel Wright Recruitment delivered a superb selection of candidates. Their specialism in the consumer products arena was of great benefit as we required individuals with specialist knowledge who could make a direct impact to our business.”

RESULTS

Nigel Wright is an international recruitment firm specialising in management and executive level recruitment within the consumer goods and services sector. We offer a premium consultative service across all key disciplines within our chosen sector, and have consistently delivered winning results for our customers. We will apply the most appropriate recruitment techniques from headhunt through to database search to ensure a swift solution to every assignment.

// Technical Director of a leading frozen food manufacturer

Nigel Wright Recruitment's consultants' knowledge of the market and of their candidates was evident in the rapid response and high quality shortlist provided. From the outset I was extremely impressed by the high standard of service provided which is borne out of having an industry background and from continuity in the market place. I would have no hesitation in recommending Nigel Wright Recruitment and will seek their assistance for our future recruitment needs."

SERVICE

Whilst our growth has been rapid we have managed our own talent well. We have one of the lowest staff turnover rates in the industry and our culture is one of continuous learning. Our senior consultants, most of whom have come from industry, have progressed in line with their sector peer group and have increased their networks disproportionately as a result. Each one of them has been responsible for business critical hires for global companies and all are comfortable taking a brief from a regional or global director.

Nigel Wright Recruitment have an unparalleled knowledge of the consumer sector, they took the time and trouble to understand our precise requirements and then supported the process with honest feedback and advice. Having linked up with Nigel Wright Recruitment we have been delighted not only by the breadth of candidates but also the consultants' individual approach to each project"

KNOWLEDGE

We operate a discreet service of highly targeted recruitment. Since the beginning we have built our reputation on delivering results effectively and efficiently time after time. We are now regularly retained by many of the world's biggest and most successful corporates including many FTSE top 100 clients who are leaders of their sector. We have made it our business to build strong networks both in the industry and amongst key players in supporting industries such as private equity and business consultancy.

// Marketing Director of market leading luxury goods brand

Nigel Wright Recruitment have always taken the time to fully understand our requirements before supplying excellent candidates. Their experience in the consumer sector is truly profound. Their understanding of the brief and selection of candidates who matched the criteria meant that I was able to fill the position quickly, without having to see countless unsuitable candidates.”

EXPERIENCE

Since our establishment in the early 1980s we have honed our offering into what it is today. We have made tough choices not to be drawn into other sectors and have made it our goal to be the best recruitment firm supporting the consumer goods and services sector. Within this broad category we have created lead consultants who are experts in their own individual fields such as Food and Drink, Luxury Goods, Retail. Many of these consultants have first hand experience having been hired from the sectors they now recruit into. We will act on any business critical or support function within your organisation, for further details speak to one of our consultants.

Nigel Wright Recruitment's native consultants were present in each of our key territories and they have an in-depth knowledge of the international talent pool, from management through to executive level. Pre study, contract, follow-up, communication, time schedule was perfect, as usual. We had the luxury of having five very good candidates in the final stage with two fantastic candidates that we could recruit."

INTERNATIONAL

Through our international network of offices and our multi-national, multi-lingual sector specialist consultants we can provide a truly international service for our customers. We operate a candidate and client management system that allows full visibility of information throughout the group, meaning that we will always find the right candidate for the right role without territorial barriers.
